

Mr. C. E. Behall, W. Va., Miss.

By my life sake, second infarction, crop and intense pain and burning in myHood's Sars-*apilis*Cures

leg. I have taken

Hood's Sarsaparilla and do not have any pains symptoms. I have taken 12 doses since taking Hood's G.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, Wash Union, Milwaukee.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cure all the Milwaukee.

NOTICE.

In looking over the list of subscribers for the News, which has come into our possession, we find many who are in arrears, ranging from one to two years and over. All such are hereby notified that payment must be made within a reasonable time or the account will be placed in the hands of a collector. Come in and see how your account stands and make arrangements for its payment.

CONDENSED NEWS.

A collection of interesting items on various subjects, especially prepared for the News.

Moustaches are to be driven off the United States.

All the battles have been removed from African history.

The Little red engine, Peterburg, Ind., have received under the new name.

The office of Advertiser, the printing press manufacturer, has declined to about $200,000.

Lord Randolph Churchill has engaged passage for New York. He will circumnavigate.

General Kelly and some of 1000 breakdancers at Longmeadow, Mass., Wednesday, en route to the Queen City.

Buffalo, Cincinnati, Detroit, Cleveland and Indianapolis decide the next session of the Catholic Knights of St. John.

The Great German Seafarers in New York closed with a grand Tuesday, in which 20,000 bags of coal were sold.

Allen Shaw of Parkersburg, W. Va., Tuesday remanded the woman from whom he was divorced 20 years ago.

Governor Greenback has vetoed the bill to allow the American Bell Telephone Company to increase its capital stock to $100,000,000.

C. C. Moore, the initial editor of The Blue Grass Blade, Lexington, Ky., is to be tried next week for blasphemy. First issue of the trial is in the state.

Washington Mills last week ground 1,000 barrels less than the week before.

The four prisoners who escaped from the Milwaukee jail are rounded up in the woods.

The Mill meeting Labor day a legal holiday has been signed by the president.

Work on the Panama canal will be recommenced, says the New York Herald.

At Parkersburg, W. Va., Mrs. John Ritchie was killed by lightning while standing in the front door watching the storm.

Five hundred agents employed along the Cincinnati and Washington Valley railway have adjourned their differences and returned to work.

Hon. W. D. Dugan of Sidney was nominated for Congress by the Republicans of the Fourth congressional district in convention at Celina.

An indictment against ex-Governor Chase of Indiana for embezzlement is pending in Clinton county, and will be tried at its September term.

It is reported again that ex-Secretary Whitney and Miss Anna Davidge are engaged.

Greece and Germany.

The pretender who reigned at Sofia, West Virginia.

Austrian King, an Italian confederate of Bismarck, O., grasped a live electric light wire and is dead.

William Richardson, aged 28, is in the hospital at Louisville, Ky., the victim of a mob of Lithuanians, who charged him with outraging a young woman of that nationality.

George Linton, a blacksmith, was attacked and struck down, Nov. 20, in the street near the Riverfront, New Haven, Conn.

Clara Foster, aged 14, was beaten with a stone and left unconscious.

Fugitive Lincoln, at Franklin, W. Va., was captured yesterday.

Mrs. James Cook, aged 65, was burned to death in the explosion of a gasoline stove at her home, Dec. 2.

An Indian boy, aged 8, was drowned while swimming in Rock river by two other boys who had left him under.

Michael Cooper, aged 20, murdered his father, George, aged 17, at Brooklyn, because his mother wouldn't marry him. He killed himself.

A man's arm was thrown into the glass of the window of an old Protestant church, gashed in Montreal. The glass was broken and windows shattered.

Persons.

General Field S. Potts was nominated for Congress by the Republicans of the tenth district.

Franklin McVeagh of Chicago was nominated for United States senator by the Illinois Democratic convention.

George A. B. Richards was renominated for Congress by Democrats of the seventh district.

None.

The house of Edward Hunt, Lincoln county, W. Va., was destroyed by fire. One boy was badly burnt.

The former frontier.

"It is a long story," said a traveling man, "but I have seen a dozen horses die of the feverish kind, which writhes and creases whenever you lay them down. It, especially if the weather is a little damp, and which breaks after you have been 100 miles or so as though it was the world to you. I have seen the world 17 times, all the way by rail, and had not up in it all the time, but since doctors are still there." —New York Sun.

The following statement.

The members of a thousand-strong company, invading through Lake Superior on their way to Canada, were commanding the grandeur of the country when the train came to a standstill.

One of the men, becoming impatient, vented his spleen, and when his comrade was asked the cause of the delay, "Well," he replied,

"A pair of the savages has fallen across the track." —Ibid.

Look Toward the Light.
In a skylight there was a little couch in a pot in the window. There was only one rose on the bush, and its face was turned full toward the light. This fact was noticed, and spoken of, when one said that the rose would look no other way save toward the light. Experiments had been made with it; it had been turned away from the window, its face toward the glass of the interior, but in a little time it would return to its old position. With wonderful persistence it refused to keep its face toward the darkness and insisted on ever looking toward the light. The rose has a lease.

We should never allow ourselves to face toward life's gloom. We should never sit down in the shadows of any sorrow and let the night darkness over us into the gloom of despair. We should turn our faces away toward the light and quench every energy for barren duty and true, hollow service. Grief should always make us better and give us new skill and power; it should make our hearts softer, our spirits kindlier, our looks more gentle; it should teach us the holy lessons, and we should learn them, and then go on with sorrow's general ordinance upon us, to new love and better service. —Selected.

We Care For Flowers.
To keep flowers looking well the water should be changed daily and old blossoms thrown away. Then the groups should be carefully adjusted with relation to each other as no two tall specimens should appear together. A little sunlight may do no harm, but out doors exposed to the full rays of a powerful sun will at once, and a pretty arrangement is soon spoiled. Early morning is the proper time to pick flowers. They should be immediately sprayed with a rubber sprayer, which, by the way, is invaluable to one who is gathering fresh blossoms. We are apt to treat flowers carelessly—a handful of them picked in the head of the day without a good spraying in soon in the same condition as a fish out of water.—New York World.

During the last century an original copy of Magna Charta, seals, signatures and all, was found in the hands of a tailor who was about to cut it up for buttons.

An Irish chieftain announced that he has "removed some from all the seven-world heads of Ireland."

An Umbrella.

"Show me an umbrella," says a manufacturer. "That has holes worn in the silk about the ring at the top, while the body of the material is still intact throughout, and I will show you the virtue of an umbrella who doesn't deserve to own one. If it is a good one. And show me an umbrella that has holes in along the ribs below, made use of it should make them quite useless, and I will show you an owner who deserves his umbrella more for the sake of appearance than for utility."

A wet umbrella places' handle down drags the moisture from it at the edges of the frame, and the material with which it is covered dries evenly and leaves no spot still soaked with water. If the handle is washed, the water runs down to one spot at the top, where the strong cloth lining about the ring holds a good deal of it and in a comparatively short time rots the material, and it breaks easily.

The man who carries his umbrella swallows it in case when it is not called into use by rain will soon find it wearing out from top to bottom.

This is because of constant friction between the case and the silk, and no matter of how good quality it may be, the holes will appear in it long before they should, and the provider of the umbrella will of course be blamed for selling inferior or damaged goods. There are many people so ignorant of the proper treatment of an umbrella that they will actually roll it up when wet and leave it to rot and mold until the next time they want it for use.—New York World.

Something For Flowers.
She was reading over the columns of marriage notices.

"It can't be true," she said, "that marriage is a lottery."

"And why not?" asked the young man with her.

"Because there is a law against advertising lotteries, and look at this," she replied, handing the paper to him.—Detroit Free Press.

A Matchless Rose.

I am informed that one rose of the little gift within the Paragon who consisted in Miss Russell's prepossessions for poker. This is a secret to which the golden diva has devoted much study. She likes a game of poker and plays it on the strict rules laid down by General Schenck....

Her parties for this diversion are usually composed of four or five people, each of whom is a millionaire.diva.

Miss Russell's income averages $50,000, and she can afford to play.

The limit is high and the betting lively.

Signor Paragon, whose salary is only $10 a week, could not sit down at such a game without risking his entire week's earnings.

His parties for this diversion are usually composed of four or five people, each of whom is a millionaire.

Miss Russell's income averages $50,000, and she can afford to play.

The

signor's

signor's</